

IN HONOR OF DECEASED CONFEDERATE VETERANS.

We the undersigned committee, appointed by the commander of rowne-Harman Camp, to prepare a resolution of respect for our deceased comrades, who have answered the last "roll call," since our last annual meeting.

First: Be it resolved. That in the death of comrade Adjutant Alexander St. Clair, we have lost a sincere friend, an honored, brave and faithful companion in the service of the Confederate army. And after the war had devoted many years of his life to the interests of the confederate veterans of his county. And his work in this respect sprung from a spirit of unbiased motives, because of his high appreciation of the veterans who had been faithful to the "lost cause." As a citizen he was vitally interested in the welfare and progress of the county and town in which he resided. In fact one of the essential factors in the business affairs of the community and country. As a christian layman of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, a devoted member to its every interest,—a leader of a large Bible class, earnestly devoted to its progress and instruction—a christian gentleman of high attainments, and, will be grievously missed by the church.

Second: In the death of comrade A. J. McGuire, who also was a member of the camp, and was a true and faithful soldier in the confederate service,—a private in the ranks, who marched through rain, mud and snow with bleeding feet, scantily clothed and hungry—yet without complaint of the hardships of a soldier's life. As they followed their beloved and immortal leader General R. E. Lee,—for it was such as these faithful privates that won renown, and made it possible for Generals Lee and Jackson and other leaders to plan battles and win victories from armies double their numbers. And in the private walks of life he was highly respected as an honorable and diligent citizen in the community in which he resided.

Comrades: Your claim to immortality was won amid the death throes of a nation whose honor you defended and for whose liberties you suffered the agonies of defeat. Peace to your ashes.

May 30th, 1922.

Respectfully submitted,
JAS. P. WHITMAN,
R. M. LAWSON,
JNO. D. GREEVER.

RADFORD NORMAL OPENS.

Elaborate preparations were made for the opening of the summer quarter of the Normal School June 19. More than one thousand definite applications have already been received. The first term of the summer quarter closes July 26; the second term opens July 31 and closes September 2. A very large proportion of the students will continue in the institution the whole summer quarter of twelve weeks and receive the regular Normal School credit looking forward to the completion of the standard two year Normal School course or the four year course leading to the Bachelor Degree.

The attendance during the summer quarter of 1921 exceeded that of any other institution in the State with the single exception of the University, the total registration being 1363.

A large number of special lecturers representing education, industry, official life and social welfare will appear before the students during the summer quarter. These special lecturers will cover every phase of human interest.

"THE LONG SMILE"—MARRIAGE.

Cedar Bluff, June 19.—The reason that Mr. D. G. Harmon has that long smile on, its a girl—Rebecca Ellen. Mrs. Harmon is in Richlands hospital and will be home in a few weeks.

Mr. Edward Lambert is home on a vacation.

Messrs Mack Sparks, David Sayers, and a number of others, attended the Odd Fellows "to do" at Hartwell Sunday.

Rev. Osborne delivered an interesting sermon to a large congregation Sunday afternoon.

Miss Hattie Beavers spent last week in Tazewell.

Miss Hazel Sparks and Albert spent Saturday night and Sunday with their cousin, Miss Vivian Sparks.

Mrs. Nan Bothe, of Richlands, is paying relatives a long visit.

Mrs. C. T. Hankins has been on the sick list for a few days, but is improving.

Miss Sarah Grace Tabor and Mr. Luther Hankins, of North Tazewell, were married last week. We all wish them joy and happiness.

"Our dance floor is small, and I'm afraid it will be too crowded. Hadn't we better limit the invitations to, say, a hundred?"

"No; just ask all the fellows to bring their girls."

DAUGHERTY AND THE MORSE CASE

SENATOR CARAWAY EXPOSING THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S ACTION IN CONTRACTING WITH THIS MAN.

$5,000 RETAINER FOR DAUGHERTY

What Chance Have The People To Stop Or Prevent Frauds Against Their Treasury.

By WALLACE BASSFORD (Special Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., May 29.—When Senator Caraway rose in his place in the Senate on May 2 and charged that Attorney General Daugherty received a fee for helping C. W. Morse to make his getaway from the Atlanta Penitentiary during Taft's administration, Senator "Jim" Watson, of Indiana, made haste to defend Daugherty and to deny the whole story. He did this on the word and authority of Daugherty, he said.

On May 20 Senator Caraway had printed in the Congressional Record a letter which Daugherty had written Morse demanding a balance of $35,000 due on contract. The Washington News on that day printed a photographic copy of the letter bearing Daugherty's signature, as well as a copy of the contract which Morse made with Thomas B. Felder, of Atlanta, who brought Daugherty into the case because of his close relations with the President at that time—Taft. While the contract is made by Felder, it provided for a retainer of $5,000 for Daugherty, and expenses, with an additional $25,000 in case of Morse's release being obtained.

Senator Caraway, who has done the people the service of exposing Daugherty's action in contracting with this man, who was a convicted felon, agreeing to relieve him from his very proper punishment through his influence with the President, stated that the only decent course left open to Daugherty was to resign. Of course, the man who put this job over on a President is not the sort who will resign, and the present incumbent at the White House hasn't enough of the Roosevelt spirit to fire him, as he so richly deserves. Of course, Morse did not pay the $25,000, but proceeded to organize new companies which sought and obtained Government contracts, and is again in the toils for alleged frauds on the Government.

In the Ladies' Home Journal of April, 1914, is found an article by President Taft, in which he said: "One never knows until he has been in the Presidency the amount of pressure that is brought in one way and another to stay prosecutions and to pardon criminals. I had two cases before me in which it was represented that both the convicts were near death. Examinations were made by the Army Medical Corps, watches were established and it was reported that both were in the last stages of a fatal disease. One of them died soon after he was released. Another of them is apparently in excellent health and seeking to re-establish himself in the field in which he committed a penitentiary offense. This shakes one's faith in expert examination." It would look like President Taft thought some one had put a job on him. It would be interesting to have his opinion of Daugherty, but he declines to be quoted—the refuge of the man who has nothing good to say.

Mr. Woodruff, of Michigan, Republican Congressman, printed in the Congressional Record of May 15, a letter from Captain H. L. Scalfie. Mr. Woodruff explained that Captain Scalfie was engaged by the Department of Justice to investigate the aircraft frauds, but resigned when he found himself constantly blocked by men in the Department. Scalfie's letter to Woodruff explains at length how, just after an interview with Daugherty he met Felder, and Felder told him he had just seen Daugherty, and that Daugherty wanted him to see Scalfie. Felder then offered Scalfie employment to defend the Bosch Company, and went from that meeting to spend the night with Daugherty at the Wardman Park Inn. The next day Scalfie received a letter from Felder retaining him as counsel in the case! It is well to bear in mind that the Attorney General, whose duty it is to represent the people in prosecuting the Bosch people, advised the Bosch attorney to hire away from the Government its chief witness against the Bosch Company! The question naturally arises, what chance have the people to stop or prevent frauds against their Treasury so long as a weak President puts such men as Daugherty at the head of the Department of Justice, whose chief function is to prosecute the looters of the public funds?

TRINKLE ANNOUNCES HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

Richmond, Va., June 17.—Following recent announcement of Henry G. Shirley, nationally-known Maryland road engineer, as chairman of the State Highway Commission of Virginia, Governor Trinkle has released for publication in the Virginia press the personnel of the entire commission of five, four of which he has just named. The appointment of these commissioners, each representing one of the grand divisions of the State, was made after the most careful and painstaking investigation by the Executive, who devoted much time to hearing delegations from several cities and counties, and in considering hundreds of letters of endorsement and suggestion sent to him from citizens of all parts of the Commonwealth. The names of the State Highway Commission, as finally decided on, are as follows:

Henry G. Shirley, of Baltimore, Chairman; Wade H. Massie, Rappahannock County; H. B. Sproul, Staunton; R. K. Saunders, of Saltville; I. Walke Truxton, of Norfolk.

Chairman Shirley will represent the Richmond, or Middle Division, on the Board. He was named for a period of four years. He is among the best known engineers and road builders in the United States. Mr. Shirley's salary will be $12,500 annually.

Wade H. Massie, chairman of the present State Highway Commission, is the only member of the old Commission reappointed. He is engaged in agricultural pursuits in Rappahannock county, will represent the Piedmont Section of Virginia, and has been appointed for a two year term.

H. B. Sproul, the Valley representative on the new body, is prominent in business in Staunton. During the recent war he served as Federal Food Commissioner for Virginia. He is named on the commission for four years.

R. K. Saunders, of Saltville, will serve as the Southwest's representative. He was named for a period of two years. Mr. Saunders ranks high in the business world of his section, being prominently interested in alkali and quarry work, as well as in extensive farming operations.

Major Truxton, who will represent Tidewater Virginia, has for years been prominent in the business and public life of Norfolk, where he served a term as city commissioner. Major Truxton has been appointed for one year. He is widely known to public men throughout the State.

Only the chairman of the commission receives a stated salary. The other members will receive $10 per day each for time actually served, plus actual expenses. All members are removable at the discretion of the Governor. The new commission takes office July 1, of this year.

The great millionaire Republican Ways and Means Committee yesterday presented a bill providing for a loan of $5,000,000 to Liberia, a Republic of Africa, which has 60,000 civilized and 2,000,000 uncivilized people. Every member of the Democratic minority voted against this bill as did 43 Republicans. With a larger majority in the House than the Democrats have votes, the millionaire Republican Committee managed to pass the bill by the small majority of nine votes. This bill would have been defeated but for the party lash which was directed from the White House.

The Republicans are fighting among themselves. Some of the cabinet officers are under fire and we now have one of the able and respectable Republican Congressmen threatening to file impeachment charges against the Cabinet Officer who is the strong arm and close personal adviser of the President because he refuses to prosecute certain war contractors.

How long would "Abe" Lincoln have kept a jack-leg lawyer in the Cabinet?

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the County of Tazewell on the 25th day of May, 1922.

C. L. Alexander, Plaintiff,

L. P. Bagby, Defendant.

The object of this suit is to recover for the said C. L. Alexander from the said principal defendant, L. P. Bagby the sum of $30.75 with interest from the 2nd day of June, 1920, until paid, and to attach the estate of the said L. P. Bagby in Tazewell county, Virginia, especially one box canned fruit, six chairs, one rocking chair, one bedstead, one pair springs, one dining table, one dresser, one center table, one hat and coat rack, one rugget, one small table, belonging to the said principal defendant, which is in the possession of one G. W. Havens, at Graham, Virginia, in said county of Tazewell, and to subject the same to the payment of said claim of plaintiff (the said defendant being a resident of Tazewell county, Virginia), and for general relief.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that the defendant, L. P. Bagby is not a resident of the State of Virginia, it is ordered that he do appear within ten days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect his interest in this suit, and that a copy of said order of publication be sent by registered mail to the principal defendant at his last known post office address as set forth in the affidavit filed. And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Clinch Valley News, a newspaper published in the county of Tazewell, and that a copy be posted at the front door of the Court-house in this county on or before the fifth day of June, 1922, that being the next succeeding Rule day after this order was entered.

THE WOMAN AND THE LAW.

"I'm not sorry I shot him. I did right to shoot him. I should have killed him before I did." Thus Peggy Marie Beal, a trained nurse of Springfield, Ill., who shot and killed a man because he would not marry her, lays the foundation of the sentimental defense which she undoubtedly will offer if brought to trial for his murder. It is a sentimental defense which is being too much worked in this country. It is an effort to justify the taking of law into the hands of an individual even to the extent of inflicting the death penalty. As such it is an attack upon all law and upon society in general as well as upon human life. Peggy Beal is no inexperienced, emotional school girl, though if she were the fundamental right and wrong of the matter would hardly be changed. She is an experienced woman, married, and the mother of a child of four years, with the added sophistication of training and practice in nursing. She went into an illicit love affair with her eyes wide open. And when the man in the case told her not only that he could not marry her because he was not divorced, but that he was "a devil with the women," she killed him. "Her faith survived" his refusal to marry her, but her pride could not bear the assertion that he had won the love of fifty other women as he had won hers. Therefore she took the law into her hands and murdered him and now asserts she did right.—Chicago Tribune.

MARCONI IS SEEKING MESSAGES FROM MARS.

New York, June 14.—En route to the United States on his yacht Elettra William Marconi, perfecter of wireless telegraphy, is seeking to pick up what he calls "wireless messages" from the planet Mars, according to the New York World.

Marconi, it is said, has been of the belief for five years that signals are being sent through space from Mars. Last year, while cruising in the Mediterranean in the Elettra, the inventor picked up a wave of 150,000 metres length, the greatest ever recorded.

Mars is now approaching the earth and next Sunday will be 42,000,000 miles away, closer than it has been since 1909. Marconi, therefore is attempting a solution of what he believes to be the most fascinating mystery held by science.
